Local Dancers to perform in the famous Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade

The Laurel Valley Academy of Dance will once again have dancers performing in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City. The Spirit of America Productions has extended an invitation to the Laurel Valley Academy of Dance and eight dancers will be traveling to New York City for the amazing experience

The dancers are: Rebekah Marsh, Valerie Magda, Sarah Scekeres, Morgan Wano, Courtney Morrison of Latrobe, Kaitlyn Grimm of Derry, Nichole Johnson of Saltsburg and Adriana LaMantia of Blairsville.

Angela Guidos, LVAD owner and several parents will travel with the dancers for the week long experience. For these dancers, this once in a lifetime opportunity will include: the Broadway show Sister Act, the world famous Rockette's Christmas Spectacular at Radio City Music Hall, trips to both the Statue of Liberty and the Empire State Building. The dancers will have many rehearsals with the entire Spirit of America Dance Team through out the week, including a special rehearsal on Monday evening in front of Macy's at Herald Square on 34th Street. The Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade is covered extensively on NBC. The LVAD dancers are very excited to perform their 'Circus' themed routine in this iconic parade.
